What is social thinking?

Social thinking is the ability to understand and respond to social cues. It is a complex skill that involves many different cognitive processes, such as:

- Theory of mind: The ability to understand that other people have their own thoughts, feelings, and beliefs
- Emotional intelligence: The ability to identify and manage one's own emotions and the emotions of others
- Social cognition: The ability to understand and interpret social situations

Children with ASD often have difficulty with social thinking. They may not be able to understand the meaning of social cues, such as facial expressions, body language, and tone of voice.
